TABLE OF CONTENTS

I. LEGAL PERSPECTIVES AROUND THE GLOBE

Women’s bodies and biomedicine in the German Federal Republic: a glimmer of hope for women despite some signs of manipulation
Françoise Furkel, Professor Emerita at the Franco-German legal Centre of Sarre University, Germany .......................... 13

Women’s autonomy and biomedical procedures carried out on the female body: Under Belgian law
Genevieve Schamps, Director of the Centre of medical and Biomedical Law, Catholic University of Louvain, Belgium.... 43

Women’s bodies and medicine in Spain: the chronicle of a profound metamorphosis
Verónica San Julian, Full Professor of Civil Law, Faculty of Law, University of Navarra (Spain)
Mª Cruz Díaz de Terán, Professor, Ph.D. in Philosophy and Law, Faculty of Law, University of Navarra, Spain ............ 71

The female body and biomedicine in French law: the end of servitude?
Francis Kernaleguen, Professor at the University of Rennes 1 (IODE, UMR CNRS 6262), France......................... 89

Liberal biomedical practices and the female body (Greek law)
Penelope AgalloPoulou, Professor Emerita at the University of Piraeus, Greece .................................................. 105

Demographic influences on the regulation of the female body in Hungary
Judit Sándor, Professor, Director of the Center for Ethics and Law in Biomedicine (CELAB), Central European University, Hungary ................................................................. 115
The female body and biomedicine in Italian law: strict laws to respect constitutional principles
Vera Parisio, Professor of administrative law at the University of Brescia, Italy
Gabriele CereseTTi, Phd in Administrative Law – University of Brescia, Italy .......................................................... 131

The female body in English law: reflections on vulnerability, responsibility and freedom
Thérèse Callus, Associate professor, University of Reading, United Kingdom ....................................................... 147

Swiss biomedical law: a woman’s freedom and medicalisation of her body
Dominique Manaï, Professor at the Faculty of Law of Geneva University, Switzerland ......................................... 163

The female body and Biomedicine in the context of the Egyptian legal culture
Hassan Abdelhamid, Professor at the Faculty of Law of University of Ain Shams, Cairo, Egypt ............................... 179

The female body and Biomedicine the Tunisian half-light
Amel Aouli-Mrad, Professor at the Faculty of Law and Political Science of Tunis, Tunisia ................................. 199

The right of self-determination of Turkish women over their own bodies: a limited right
Saibe Oktay-Özdemir, Professor at Istanbul University, Faculty of Law, Section of civil law and law of obligations GülEN Sinem Tek, Research fellow at Bahcesehir University, Faculty of Law, PhD Student at Istanbul University .......... 211

Regulating biomedical practices on women in Senegal: the ambiguity of legal rules
Mamadou Badi, Professor at the Faculty of Law, Cheikh Anta Diop University, Dakar, Senegal .............................. 225

Evolving, yet resisting: how the law deals with a woman’s bodily autonomy in Brazilian law
Maria-Claudia Crespo-Brauner, Professor at the Federal University of Rio Grande – Researcher at CNPQ/MCT, Brazil
Anderson Orestes Cavalcante Lobato, Professor at the Federal University of Rio Grande, Brazil ................................................................. 243

The right of self-determination of chilean women over their own bodies: a restricted autonomy to protect the nasciturus
Carmen Dominguez Hidalgo, Professor of Civil Law, Director of the UC Family Centre, Pontifical Catholic University of Chile, Chile ................................................................. 255

The legal framework for biomedicine: reproduction and cosmetic surgery in China and Taiwan
Yao-Ming Hsu, Associate professor, College of Law, National Cheng-Chi University, Taipei, Taiwan ................... 263

How japanese tradition hampers woman’s freedom over her body
Minori Kokado, Senior Researcher, Ritsumeikan University, Kinugasa Research Organization, Research Center for ArsVivendi
Ryuichi Ida, Distinguished Visiting Professor, Graduate School of Global Studies, Doshisha University, Japan ....... 289

The female body, medicine and the social body in the USA
Kristina Orfali, Associate Clinical Professor of Bioethics, Columbia University, New York, USA ................................. 299

II. OTHER PERSPECTIVES: FROM HUMAN SCIENCES TO MEDICINE

Between liberation and alienation: the ambivalences of medicine
David Le Breton, Professor of sociology at Strasbourg University, Member of the University Institute of France, France ................................................................................................. 321

The habeas corpus of women: a double revolution?
Geneviève Fraisse, Philosopher, Research Director at the CNRS, France ................................................................. 339

“My body belongs to me”, “no is no”. what remains of these principles?
Ruwen Ogien, Director of Research at the CNRS, Cerses, Paris V University – René Descartes, France ........................ 347

Bruylant
The female body and Biomedicine: more constraints or more freedom?
René Frydman, Professor Emeritus of gynaecology-obstetrics – Paris V – Necker, Map Consultant at the Hôpital Foch, France ................................................................. 359

Medecine and the female body
Israël Nisand, Professor of gynaecology-obstetrics at the CHU of Strasbourg and Founder of the European Bioethics Forum, France ................................................................. 365

Woman, body and soul the experience of a gynaecologist and obstetrician
Annie Cornec, Gynaecologist-obstetrician Rennes, France ... 369

Cosmetic surgery: between liberation and exploitation of the female body: a Practitioner’s View
Dr Hassen Ben Jemaa, Maxillofacial Surgeon, Graduate of the French College of Plastic, reconstructive and aesthetic surgery, Tunisia ................................................................. 375

III.
OVERVIEW

Biomedicine, a promise of freedom
Brigitte Feuillet-Liger, Professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Rennes 1, Member of the University Institute of France (IUF), Director, Centre de Recherche Juridique de l'Ouest (IODE, UMR n° 6262), France ................................. 385